

Social and Personal

Historic St. Paul's Church was the scene of a brilliant wedding last night at 8:30 o'clock, when Miss Polly Robins was married to Lieutenant Russell Byrd Crenshaw, United States Navy. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Lieutenant Augustus Warner Robins, United States Army, wore a lovely gown of white satin, charmingly trimmed in rose point and lace. The bodice was embroidered in seed pearls, and she wore an old pearl brooch as her only ornament. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies, and her veil of illusion, which fell to the hem of the long train, was arranged with orange blossoms. Mrs. Maurice Johnston Lunn, who attended the bride, wore a gown of white and blue, and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

The bridal party on entering the church passed under an arch made by the swords of the groomsmen.

It was a navy wedding, and the color scheme at the church and the house carried out the navy colors, yellow and white, most effectively. At the church where the Rev. Walter Russell Bowie performed the ceremony, decorations were in palms and lighted candles. The altar was arranged with white blossoms and standards of yellow chrysanthemums marked the family pews. The bridegroom and all the groomsmen were in full dress uniform, and the church was crowded with a fashionable gathering of beautifully gowned women, the bride, who belongs to one of the best known families in the State, is a daughter of the late Colonel William Todd Robins, of Gloucester County, and Mrs. Sally Nelson Robins. Y. and Susie Dimmock, of Newport News. They wore quaint frocks of cream-colored lace and satin, made with paillettes of yellow crepe meteor and carried big bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums. Little Ruth Nelson Gordon and Mary Mason Anderson Williams held the ribbons. Their frocks were of white lace and embroidered mull, and they wore sashes of yellow and white. French baskets of yellow and white flowers.

A large reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Horace Wellford Jones, 200 East Franklin Street. The bride and groom received under a big wedding bell of white cosmos, and the house was decorated throughout in yellow and white chrysanthemums and palms. The table in the dining-room had an old silver tankard filled with yellow chrysanthemums as a centerpiece, and the lights were shaded in yellow.
